Project #AA0024-60813

“The student is not above the teacher, but everyone who is fully trained will be like their teacher.”
(Luke 6:40)

As churches grow in Africa, there is an increased desire to train men to become pastors at locations within their countries and close to home. Instructors for seminary students require advanced degrees to ensure sound instruction. This project intends to provide scholarships for advanced theological education Lutheran churches within Francophone-speaking west Africa. Pastors who are graduates of the CLET, have been ordained for three years and remained faithful could apply for an advanced degree or seek language instruction to aid in advanced learning. Learning institutions staffed with instructors with advanced degrees have the opportunity to offer students an accredited and recognized degree that will enable them to sustain and grow the Lord’s church within their country.
